[59 (15)] Those of old who were adept in the Way were subtly profand and mysterously perceptive.

So deep
they could not be recognized.

Now, Because they cald not be recognized, one can describe their appearance only with effort:

hesitant, as though crossing a stream in the winter; cautious, as though fearful of their neighbor all around; solemn, as though guests in someone else's house; shrinking as ice when it melts; plain, as an unhewn log; muddled, as turbid waters; expansive, as broad as a valley.

If turbid waters are stilled, they will gradually become clear; if something inert is set in motion, it will gradually come to life.

Those who preserved this way did not wish to be full.

Now,

Simply because they did not wish to be full. ~~Simply because they did not wish to b~~ they could be threadbare and incomplete

We need no more enable self destruction. We need a prevailing body of able mind, body, & spirited individuals who serve higher dimensions of love & ~~honest~~ Truth.
